10th Anniversary!

World heritage site; Mt. Fuji

Mt. Fuji was added to the World Heritage List as a Cultural Site on June 22, 2013. Mt. Fuji has long been an object of worship, and many works of art, such as "ukiyo-e" prints, have been created. These 3 places are parts of the heritage assets in the Kawaguchiko-town.

Kawaguchi Asama shrine

This shrine had been built to pray for calming down the Mt. Fuji's eruption in 864. Over 1200 year-old Japanese cedar trees are must-see.

Funatsu Lava Tree Molds

This is a cave formed by lava that erupted from Mt. Fuji 1,000 years ago and solidified around trees. The length of this cave is over 70 meters.

HOTO & UDON

(Local style noodles)

Hoto is a traditional local dish representative of Yamanashi in which plain noodles are cooked with miso-based soup and seasonal vegetables. It is a dish we highly recommend. And don't forget to try "Yoshida-no-udon" in the Fuji Five Lakes area, including Fujikawaguchiko Town. It features noodles that are strong in texture and miso or soy sauce-based soup. It is particularly popular among people in this town.

Tradition of eating horsemeat

The Fuji Five Lakes area, including Fujikawaguchiko Town, has a long tradition of eating horse meat. Speaking of horses, it is held at Fuji-Omuro-Sengen-jinja Shrine in Katsuyama district every April "Kai no Katsuyama Yabusame Matsuri". It is said that it was dedicated in the riding ground of Mount Fuji in old days. This area is the base of Mt. Fuji worship. Horses were very useful for climbers to carry bags. Even now, the townspeople love horse meat. In butcher shops, Basashi(horse meat sashimi) is lined up, and eaten as a little luxury at celebrations or parties. There are also many restaurants that serves local gourmet called "Yoshida no udon" noodle(Introduced on page 11.).These noodles are often topped with salty-sweet stewed horse meat. Horse tripe are also very popular among the townspeople. When you order "Motsuni(Japanese tripe stew)" at Japanese pubs, they often serve horsemeat. Horsemeat has less smell and is easy to eat, and is low in calories and high in protein. It is also rich in iron. If you visit Fujikawaguchiko town, please try it once.

Pick Up

"Yoshida-no-udon" which has its roots in Fujiyoshida city next to this town

Hoto is a popular regional dish. It is a hot pot dish stewing flat Udon noodles and vegetables in miso soup

In Fujikawaguchiko town, upland farming has developed rather than rice cultivation. For this reason, flour foods such as "Hoto" and udon noodle have long taken root. In the past, udon was a sacred thing to eat at ceremonial occasions. In the Showa era, in the Fujiyoshida city where the textile industry developed, people can enjoy a bowl of udon as a convenient lunch during work. These are the roots of today's "Yoshida-no-udon". After the war, many udon shops opened in the Fuji Five Lakes area. On the other hand, hoto was eaten as daily dinner in the past. Add noodles and vegetables such as root vegetables, potatoes, mushrooms to the soup stock, and add the taste with miso. People shared it with their family and cultivate vitality for tomorrow. Even nowadays, udon is loved by people as a lunch to eat between work and hoto is a home taste that everyone can enjoy.

YAKINIKU

(Korean BBQ),

Chinese food, Asian food

If you are a meat lover, we suggest you visit the local yakiniku restaurant. You can enjoy delicious beef and chicken. In addition, there are restaurants that serve Japanese cuisine made from beef or pork innards referred to as hormone. Also, there are Chinese restaurants famous for tasty Chinese cuisine and ramen and Indian restaurants that serve a selection of spicy curries.

MUST SEE!
"Saiko Iyashi no Sato Nemba"

"Saiko Iyashi no Sato Nemba" is where you can experience the diverse culture of Fuji-Kawaguchiko Town. It reproduces the thatched roof (a roof covered in grass) village that was washed away by the typhoon disaster in 1966, and opened in 2006. The 20 thatched houses are a facility where you can discover and experience various things, where you can play with old playthings.

Of course, there are also facilities where you can experience food culture. "Tokusanhin kakojo (specialty processing plant)" sells ancient rice, pickles, miso and other specialties from Fujikawaguchiko town. If you're hungry, visit "Shokujidokoro Satoyama"

"Handmade Soba Mizumo" and "Cafe Seiryu-tei". You can spend a wonderful day relaxing in the thatched roof village and the scenery of Mt. Fuji.

A regional food in Fujikawaguchiko town "Memaki"

"Memaki" Roll slices of fish with Eisenia and boil it down salty-sweet over 10 hours.

"Memaki" is one of the regional food in Kawaguchi area in Fujikawaguchiko town. It's made with slices of fish and Eisenia which is a kind of seaweed. To make "Memaki", roll slices of fish with Eisenia. Then, boil it down salty-sweet. In this region, Eisenia had been called "me" and in Japanese, roll is pronounced "maku /maki". That's why this food is called "Memaki". "Memaki" was born in the mid Edo period (1710-1790). At that time, there was a small village where "oshi" lived. "Oshi" are the people who take care of climbers on Mt. Fuji. "Oshi" gave climbers "memaki" so that they eat during their climbing. The shape of "memaki" represents Mt. Fuji and the toothpick represents a special walking stick called "kongō-zue". For climbers, "memaki" was a kind of charm. Nowadays "memaki" is eaten every April, and it's when "magomi-matsuri" held. "Magomi-matsuri" is a grand spring festival of "Kawaguchi-Asama shrine" and it's a world cultural heritage. "Memaki" has been inheriting in the Kawaguchi region as an important food to celebrate "Kawaguchi-no-chigo-no-mai"; a significant intangible folk cultural asset.

Local sake and beer using wonderful water in Fujikawaguchiko

The snow that has accumulated on Mt. Fuji permeates the ground over a long period of time, and eventually reaches Fujikawaguchiko town as underground water and spring water. Let me introduce you to the local sake and local beer using the water.

“Kai-no-Kaiun” from the Edo era

“Ide-jozoten”; The Ide Brewery was founded over 300 years ago. In the late Edo period, the 16th head of this brewery started to produce sake and it has been inheriting by the 21st head; “Ide Yogoemon”. We hope you enjoy our high-quality sake made from limpid water from Mt.Fuji and brewed in the coldest area at the altitude of 850 meters. From 2020, we’ve started to produce whisky named “Fuji-Hokuroku-Distillery”. We also produce whisky with soda. Please try it.

*Cancelled in 2020

Kai-no-Katsuyama Yabusame Festival (April 29) *Cancelled in 2020

Fujizakura Cherry Blossom and Mitsuba-Tsutsuji Azalea Festival (Late April - early May)

Summer Lavender colors Lake Kawaguchiko gorgeously in summer. You can enjoy beautiful flowers mainly in Yagizaki Park and Oishi Park. Every year from late June to mid-July, the “Kawaguchiko Herb Festival” is held.

● Summer Event Information

Saiko Road Race (3rd Sunday in June)
Lake Saiko Ryugusai Festival (Aug. 2), Lake Motosuko Shinkosai Festival (Aug. 3), Lake Shojiko Ryokosai Festival and Music Festival (Aug. 4)
Lake Kawaguchiko Kojosai Festival (August 5)
Mt.Fuji Kawaguchiko Music Festival (mid-August)

Autumn In November, autumn leaves spread from Lake Motosuko and Lake Shojiko to Lake Saiko and Lake Kawaguchiko, and the lakeside is brightly colored red and yellow. It is also in this season that Mt. Ashiwada is crowded with climbers.

● Autumn Event Information

Fuji Sanroku Trail Run (late September or early October)
Fujisan Genshirin Trail Run (3rd Sunday in October)

Mt. Fuji / Lake / Maple Walk

<Exercise walking event> (Mid-November)

Fujikawaguchiko Autumn Leaves Festival (early to mid-November)

Mt. Fuji Marathon (last Sunday in November)

Winter It is only in winter that you can see Mt. Fuji covered with snow in the clear air. It is very cold in the morning and at night, but why not enjoy Mt. Fuji while enjoying the hot springs in the town?

● Winter Event Information

Kawaguchiko Winter Fireworks (Sat and Sun from mid-January to late February)

Japanese pub, bar

If you stay in the town make sure to visit a Japanese style pub or bar. You can enjoy your favorite alcohol, such as beer, Japanese sake or shochu, with delicious appetizers such as yakitori, oden and sashimi. There are also bars that specialize in cocktails and wine, pubs with a distinct local atmosphere, and pubs that have an extensive selection of dishes. We hope you have a night to remember.
